Thousands of years of history, characterized by the presence of glorious empires, have left to Rome a historical and artistic heritage like in few other places of the world. Everywhere it is possible to find marks of hundred years culture: treasures of incomparable beauty made of squares, palaces, alleys, churches and fountains. It would be very hard to introduce all the tourist attractions that Rome has to offer. Anyway, here by we provide you with a selection of what you cannot absolutely miss during your visit to Rome.

Colosseum

The arena, also known as Amphitheatre Flavio, was built in 72 a.C. by emperor Vespasianus. At its insides took place bloody battles among gladiators, slaves, prisoners and wild animals, becoming one of the main attractions for emperors and the roman people.

Piazza Navona

This wonderful square of a theatre-like shape assumed its current aspect around the half of 17th century. The main artistic attraction at the middle of the square is the Four River's Fountain, one of Bernini's most extravagant works, finished in 1651.

Piazza di Trevi

The name of this square is due to the three streets that conduced to it, even if at the moment the streets are more than that number. At the centre of the square is the amazing homonym fountain, Rococo artwork of Nicolò Salvi, inside which, as a tradition, people throw a coin to ensure the return to the Eternal City.
